Dear Mr Reeves

A member of the Red Head Villages Association has raised concerns that there have been no fire hazard reduction burns in our area in recent months.

Despite the fact that the correspondent has been told that “hazard reduction plans are in place for our villages and are within the guidelines of the Shoalhaven Bushfire Risk Management Planning process”, there has been no detail supplied on exactly what activity will happen in the coming months.

The correspondent has also been told by Shoalhaven RFS headquarters that “there is currently no hazard reduction plan in place for Manyana, Bendalong, Cunjurong Point or Berringer Lake”.

Could you please inform RHVA of what plans for fire hazard reduction are in place and what the timeline for those plans will entail?

Yours sincerely

Fiona Friend
Secretary
